INDEX

TO THE

HUNDRED AND FIFTH VOLUME

OF THE

North American Review.

After the War, a Southern Tour, by W. Reid, critical notice of, 695.

Alchemy among the Pilgrim Colonists, 610–617.

Alexander I. of Russia, his Laws respecting the Serfs, 51.

Alexander II., his measures of emancipation, 63–75.

Arabic language, conditions of its spread, 551.

Atkinson, Edward, his pamphlet on the Collection of Revenue, critical notice of, 280–287 — a protective tariff, 282 — present system of taxation, 286.

Bank of England Restriction, article on, 393–434 — operations of the Bank, 394 — its power over the currency, 395 — European war of 1793–1815, 396 — panic and suspension of 1797, 398 — credit of the Bank maintained by government, 399 — Restriction Act, 400 — disappearance of coin, 402 — bank issues and government paper, 405 — the Berlin decree, 407 — Continental trade, 408 — the country banks, 409 — expansion of bank issues, 411 — fall of prices, 412 — the Bullion Committee, 414 — prosecutions for purchase of coin at premium, 417 — case of Lord King, 418 — Lord Stanhope's Act, 419 — depression of 1811, 420 — premium on gold, 421 — panic of 1815, 422 — McCulloch's theory, 423 — highest point of bank circulation, 425 — resumption and speculation of 1817, 427 — Peel's measures, 430 — resumption of cash payments, 432 — fall in prices, 433 — comparison with the system of inconvertible paper, 434.

Basque language, 225 — people, 546.

Bigelow, Jacob, M. D., his Modern Inquiries, critical notice of, 297–301 — utilitarianism in studies, 299.

Bopp's Comparative Grammar, 539.

Brown University, History of, by R. A. Guild, critical notice of, 697.

Burke, his judgment of Rousseau, 242.

Canti on the Italian language, 20.

Celibacy in the Church, Historical Sketch of, by H. C. Lea, critical notice of, 645.

Chance, Logic of, by J. Venn, critical notice of, 317.

Chapin, E. S., on Gravitation and Heat, critical notice of, 330.

Cornell University, 295, 513.

Church, Capt. Benjamin, History of King Philip's War, and Eastern Expeditions, Dexter's edition, critical notice of, 662.

Civil Service of the United States, article on, 478–495 — present character of, 478 — in England, 483 — Macaulay on the East Indian Service, 483 — views of J. S. Mill, 484 — in Europe and Asia, 486 — dread of bureaucracy, 488 — Mr. Jenckes's bill, 490.

Clough, Arthur Hugh, article on, 434–477 — early life, 435 — course at Oxford, 436 — tractarian influence, 437 — as Fellow and Tutor, 438 — his independence of mind, 439 — he quits Oxford, 441 — at University Hall, London, 442 — at Cambridge, N. E., 443 — employment in the Education Department, England, 443 — his later life, 444 — Letters and Remains, 445 — "Dipsychus," prologue and poem, 446–477.

Coquerel, Athanase, Jr., First Historical Transformations of Christianity, translated by Professor Evans, critical notice of, 311.

Craik's English of Shakespeare, Rolfe's edition, critical notice of, 302–308.

Critical and Social Essays from the Nation, critical notice of, 329.

Cromwell, notices of, in the Winthrop Papers, 600–607.

Dante, Divina Commedia, Longfellow's translation, article on, 124–148 — question of method in translation, 125 — Dryden's opinion, 128 — Arnold and Newman, 130 — Littré, 131 — Longfellow's version, 133 — use of rhyme considered, 134 — style and diction of Dante, 136 — Rossetti's version, 137 — episode of Ugolino, 144 — the Terrestrial Paradise, 143 — notes and illustrations, 147.

Diez views on the Romance languages, 37.

Dipsychus, a poem by A. H. Clough, quoted from at length, 446-477.

Draper, J. W., History of the American Civil War, critical notice of, 664-670.

Dryden, on translation, 120.

Emancipation in Russia, article on, 41-88. See Russia.

Emerson, R. W., May-Day, and other Poems, critical notice of, 325.

Evans, Professor, translation of Coquerel's Transformations of Christianity, 311.

Ferris, J. A., on the Financial Economy of the United States, critical notice of, 677.

Freeman, E. A., History of the Norman Conquest, critical notice of, 640-645.

Frithiof's Saga, Tegnér's, translated by W. L. Blackley, critical notice of, 692.

Gage, W. L., Life of Carl Ritter, critical notice of, 314.

George III. and Lord North, article on, 357-382 — Memoirs and Correspondence, by Jesse and Donne, 357 — common opinion respecting the American Revolution, 359 — arbitrary character of the king, 361 — his relations with Lord North, 362 — opposition to the war, 363 — resignation of the Ministry, 367 — General Gage, 368 — Governor Hutchinson, 369 — Parliament in 1774, 371 — negotiations for Continental troops, 372 — Burgoyne's surrender, 375 — king's letter of 1779, 377 — Mr. Donne's editorship, 380.

Gibbons, J. S., on the Public Debt of the United States, critical notice, 670-677.

Gothic languages, 15.

Gravitation and Heat, E. S. Chapin, reviewed, 330.

Greene, Professor G. W., letter from, on Mr. Bancroft's statements respecting General Greene, 332-351.

Guild, R. A., History of Brown University, critical notice, 697.

Hamilton, Alexander, as represented by Mr. Van Buren, 269.

Hawronitz, Dr. H. von, on the Military Sanitary History of the late War, critical notice, 287-291.

Hegel, his ontology and logic, 93.

Hertz Henrik, King René's Daughter, critical notice of, 692.

Indians, American, as they appear in the Winthrop Papers, 608, 624.

Indo-European languages, 218 — Philology of, by Key and Oppert, reviewed, 521-554.

Irish land system, 187.

Italian language, origin of, article on, 1-41 — character of the people, 12 — mediæval literature, 18 — its relation with Latin, 20 — views of Cantù and Müller, 22 — lingua rustica and lingua comune writers of the fourteenth century, 29 — local dialects, 30.

Jason, Life and Death of, by William Morris, critical notice of, 688.

Jenckes, Hon. T. A., his bill for reform of the civil service, 490.

Jesuits in North America, by F. Parkman, critical notice of, 321.

Johnson, S., his opinion of Rousseau, 244.

Judiciary of New York City, article on, 148-176.

Kant's philosophical scepticism, 90.

Key and Oppert on Indo-European philology, article on, 521-554 — the study of other languages included, 522 — importance of Sanskrit, 525 — reactionary views of Professor Key, 526 — his criticisms, 528 — Max Müller, 529 — vain etymologies, 530 — genesis of grammatical forms, 531 — physical organs of speech, 533 — claims and qualifications of Professor Oppert, 535 — his relations to Sanskrit, 537 — on Bopp's Comparative Grammar, 539 — on the application of philology to Latin and Greek, 541 — on the history of races, 543 — the Greeks, 544 — Basques, 546 — centre of Aryan dispersion, 547 — extension of language by conquest, 548 — unity of Indo-European tongues, 549 — language as a proof of descent, 553 — Oppert and Renan, 554.

King René's Daughter, poem by H. Hertz, translated by Theodore Martin, critical notice of, 692.

Labor Crisis, article on, 177-213 — English Trades Unions, 179 — modern "substitution of contract for status," 181 — actual labor contract, 184 — laws against organizations of laborers, 185 — theory of political economists, 186 — Irish land-system, 187 — growth of education, 189 — strikes, 190 — the better way, 191 — labor and capital, 193 — use of Unions, 194 — co-operation, 196 — free trade, 199 — the opportunity of America, 203 — evils of protection, 204 — town and country, 206 — American manufactures, 208 — the wages system, 211 — eight-hour movement, 212.

Language, mechanism of, 2 — science of, 4.

Language and Human Unity, article on, 214-241 — classification, 215 — English, 215 — German, 216 — Indo-European, 218 — Semitic, 220 — African and Scythian, 221 — Chinese, Polynesian, etc., 224 — Basque, 225 — question of fundamental unity, 226 — stages of linguistic growth, 230 — inferior dialects, 233 — differentiation and dissimilation, 234 — character of the evidence, 237 — fallacies, 238.

Latin and its derivatives, 14 — its use in the Empire, 31 — its later use, 34 — never the language of all Italy, 38.

Lea, H. C., Historical Sketch of Celibacy in the Christian Church, critical notice of, 645-653.

Lechford's Plain-dealing, or News from New England, edited by J. H. Trumbull, critical notice of, 659.

Lingua comune and lingua rustica in Italy, 26 – 33.
Longfellow, H. W., Translation of Dante's Divina Commedia, article on, 124 – 148.
Long Island Historical Society, memoirs of, noticed, 653 – 659.
McClintock and Strong's Biblical Cyclopædia, critical notice of, 684.
McCulloch, Hugh, Letter on Finance reviewed, 275 – 280 — on the reduction of currency, 278.
McCulloch, J. R., his theory respecting bank issues, 425.
Mill, J. S., his Inaugural Address at the University of St. Andrew's, critical notice of, 291 – 295.
Morris, William, his Life and Death of Jason, critical notice of, 688.
Monroe, Ex-President, his essay "The People are Sovereign," critically noticed, 634 – 639.
Moore, Thomas, his opinion of Rousseau, 246.
Müller, Max, on the Science of Language, 529.
Muscular action in language, 3.
Naval Observatory of the United States, article on, 382 – 393 — conditions of usefulness in an observatory, 383 — Lieut. Maury, 384 — his assistants and plans, 385 — Capt. Gilliss and Admiral Davis, 386 — Com. Sands, 387 — instruments and observations, 387 — minute measurements, 389 — lack of results — 390 — defects of instruments, 391 — other observatories, 392 — desiderata, 393.
New York City, Judiciary of, article on, 148 – 176 — the courts, 149 — elective judges, their constituency, 150 — foreign population, 152 — inferiority of judges to counsel, 155 — arguments out of court, 155 — portrait of a New York judge, 157 — law of 1866, 161 — criminal courts, 164 — bribery, 165 — inhumanity, 166 — the "ring," 167 — criminal lawyers, 168 — bounty money for pardoned criminals, 170 — corrupting influence, 173 — the public indifference, 175 — Constitutional Convention of 1867, 176.
Norman Conquest, E. A. Freeman's History of, critical notice of, 640 – 645.
Observatory, Naval, at Washington, 382 – 393.
Oppert, Prof., on the Science of Language, 535.
Parkman, F., his Jesuits in North America, critical notice of, 321.
Peel, Sir Robert, his Financial Bill of 1819, 430.
Peter I. of Russia, his laws relative to serfdom, 48.
Petrarch at Avignon, 256.
Philology in Germany, 7 — in England, 8 — in Italy, 10.
Philology, Indo-European, Key and Oppert, article on, 521 – 554.
Prison Discipline, Reformation of, article on, 555 – 591 — Reports of Prison Association of New York, 557 — of Drs. Wines and Dwight, 561 — mismanagement, 562 — conditional pardons, 564 — prison libraries, 565 — prisons of Canada, 566 — ventilation, 567 — convict labor, 569 — profits of contractors, 572 — employees, 574 — tabular rules of State prisons in United States, 576 — Albany Penitentiary, 577 — Detroit House of Correction, 579 — convicts from army and navy, 581 — Sir W. Crofton's Irish System, 582 — Separate System in Europe, 584 — duty to the prisoner, 588 — moral effects of imprisonment, 590.
Quakers referred to in the Winthrop Papers, 623.
Reid, Whitelaw, his After the War, critical notice of, 695.
Ritter, Carl, Life by W. L. Gage, notice of, 314.
Romance languages, 11, 37.
Rousseau and the Sentimentalists, article on, 242 – 266 — opinions of Burke, 242 — of Johnson, 244 — of Moore, 246 — Rousseau as a moralist, 250 — his rhetorical character, 251 — sentiment and sentimentalism, 255 — Petrarch, 256 — Rousseau's Confessions, 259 — the French Revolution, 262 — the sentimental school, 263 — conviction and temperament, 266.
Russia, Serfdom and Emancipation in, article on, 41 – 88 — character of serfdom, 42 — early civilization in Russia, 43 — type of national character and institutions — communes, 44 — nobility and clergy, 45 — serfdom, 46 — ukase of 1592 — adscriptio glebæ, 47 — laws of Peter I., 48 — of Alexander I., 51 — of Nicholas, 52 — crown peasants, 53 — serfs, 56 — oppressions, 59 — number of proprietors, 62 — Alexander II., 63 — his measures of emancipation, 64 — homestead, 66 — rent, 68 — nine-year law, 71 — tax and government loan, 72 — rights of proprietors, 73 — small estimate, 75 — new administration, 77 — comparison with the United States, 79 — effects of emancipation, 82 — legal reforms, 85 — tendency to co-operative association, 87 — lack of public opinion in Russia, 88.
Sanskrit, its importance to the science of language, 525 — disparagement of, by Professor Key, 526 — question as to the age of its literature, 528 — false etymologies from, 530 — its literature, according to Professor Oppert, 537.
Science of language, what it consists in, 6.
Science, National Schools of, article on, 495 – 520 — national acts, 496 — Act for the benefit of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts of 1862, 497 — the Department of Education, 499 — previous scientific schools, 500 — history of Congressional action, 502 — analysis of the act of 1862, 504 — wise generality of its terms, 506 — true character of the proposed colleges, 507 — amount of the public domain set apart, 508, 510 — importance of concentration; Mr. White's argument, 511 — the Cornell University, 513 — importance of understanding the European system, 514 — but not to be copied here, 516 — funds wasted in buildings, 517 — military instruction, 518 — museums, 519 — relation of these schools to practical industry, 519 — increased value they give to the older classical colleges, 520.

Semitic languages, their relation to other tongues, 220.

Serfdom in Russia, 46. (See Russia, Serfdom, &c., in.)

Shedd, W. T. G., Homiletics and Pastoral Theology, notice of, 309.

Smith's Dictionary of the Bible, critical notice of, 683.

Speculative Philosophy, Journal of, noticed, 697.

Swedenborg's Ontology, article on, 89 – 123 — the problem of creation, 89 — Kant, 90 — Hegel, 93 — finite and infinite, 95 — Swedenborg's analysis of consciousness, 97 — doctrine of the Lord, 99 — of creation, 103 — spiritual sense of Scripture, 106 — divine humanity, 108 — divine law and wisdom, 114 — doctrine of nature, 117 — of the church, 119 — Swedenborg as a seer, 120 — recent works on his doctrine, 122.

Swinburne, A. C., his Song of Italy, 324.

Taxation, present system of, 286.

Trades Unions in England and elsewhere, 177.

Turgenef, Ivan, his "Fathers and Sons," translated by E. Schuyler, critical notice of, 328.

Underhill, Captain (Winthrop Papers), 617.

Van Buren, Ex-President, on Political Parties in the United States, reviewed, 267 – 275 — Alexander Hamilton, 269 — republicanism of early colonists, 271 — democracy and the agricultural interest, 272 — modifications of parties, 274.

Venn, John, his Logic of Chance, notice of, 319.

White, A. D., his Report on Cornell University, 295.

Winthrop Papers, article on, 592 – 628 — pride of ancestry, 592 — sympathy with the past, 593 — oddities of history, 594 — Winthrop, 594 — Williams, Downing, and Peter, 595 — Peter's letter touching Mrs. Sheffield, 596 — his domestic griefs, 598 — his real character, 599 — glimpses of Milton and Cromwell, 600 — Cromwell's designs, 601 — portrait of Cromwell (Maidstone's letter), 603 — his death (Hooke's letter), 606 — the temperance question and domestic service, 607 — origin of the term "help," 608 — search for the philosopher's stone, 610 — mysticism, 611 — alchemy, 613 — elixir of life, 615 — sundry prescriptions, 616 — Captain Underhill, 617 — his letters and orthography, 620 — Coddington, 621 — the Quaker execution, 623 — Indian royalty, 624 — John Tinker's letters, 626 — narrowness of New England Puritanism, 628.

Wright, J. S., on Reconstruction, notice of, 321.

Youmans, Professor E. L., his volume "Modern Culture" reviewed, 629 – 634.